

Therapeutic targets for depression and more

Khalil, Afaf H.

Ain-Shams Univ., Cairo (EGY). Inst. of Psychiatry

Ain-Shams International Congress in Psychiatry : Towards Global Patient's Care. 3rd. Luxor (EGY).
Mar 5-6, 2007

In clinical practice, the management of depression and anxiety disorders requires an individualized clinical strategy. Treatment selection is also complicated by commorbidities. This presentation will review the neurobiological basis of anxiety and depression, emphasize the role of neural circuits and integrate insights from recent research with new perspectives on the pathophysiology of anxiety and depression. On the basis of the pathophysiology, the recent strategies of therapeutic intervention will be discussed.